BALMY DAYS AT AIKEN.

Winter Colony Basks in a 73 Temperature at S. C. Resort.

HOTEL PARK IN THE PINES, AIREN, S. C. Jan. 11. So many guests were already sojourning at this resort that Col. A. E. Dick, the manager, could afford to defy superstition and consequently the official opening of the palatial hotel occurred on Friday and was ushered in by the arrival of many guests.

The weather has been more like that of May than January, and it has not been unusual to see the thermometer at 72 degrees at 6 o'clock in the evening. It has been stated by climatological experts that Aiken's climate is unsurpassed in America

Take, for instance, a girdle of black satin showing touches of gay brocaded velvet ribbon. Only a quarter of a varid of this ribbon is needed, but it gives just the desired touch of novelty. The tibbon can appear in two points turning over the top of the black girdle at each side of the front or two points may come from under the girdle at each side, lengthering the appearance of the waist line. Both suggestions are easily carried out and are noted on imported girdles.

The brilliant velvet flowered ribbon can also be worked into the finish of the hanging scarf ends or an immense but ton mould can be covered with a single velvet flower cut from the ribbon. This ornament can be finished with a deep swinging fringe of varicolored heads and serve as an effective substitute for a belt buckle or silde.

The guests at Hotel Park in the Pines may start the day at sunrise with a fox hunt and to music of the hounds gallop across the country, returning in time for breakfast and afterward indulge in a morning of golf or tennis. The afternoons are devoted to shooting and more golf, and as the sun sinks behind the Southern pines they gather about the bridge tables until dinner. The evenings are spent in listening to the nightly concerts or at pool or billards.

The arrival of Mr. and Mrs. C. Oliver Iselin is looked forward to daily by the winter colony. The family usually arrive earlier, but owing to the severe illiness of Mr. Iselin their coming has been delayed, although their servants are here butting their beautiful home.
